

One claim carries four independent verification axes

Each axis answers a different question, has its own status enum, and is promoted by its own evidence. Collapsing them into a single Boolean destroys the information a reader needs.

